

GUEST PLAYERS

While most competitive teams have used Got Soccer to enter tournaments over the years, some procedures have to change since FYSA is using Got Soccer for player and coach registration. Club registrars register the players and coaches with FYSA and create rosters and passes in the club's annual registration event. Each team can enter multiple league and tournament events, using their team account then using their official state rosters and passes from their registration event.

When a team enters a Got Soccer tournament, the tournament has an event roster that contains the rostered and the guest players that are attending that event. The practice of a coach creating a new account for a guest player or coach to appear on the tournament roster (and the team's player list) must not continue. This works fine when the state is not using Got Soccer for registration, as the tournament requires the submission of credentials (rosters, passes and signed guest player forms), and there is no impact on the team's registration status. But since we are using Got Soccer for registration, FYSA teams will have to do things a bit different.

Tournaments that use Got Soccer have a guest player pool option, and using this will not impact the team's player list at the club level. Players will apply to be a guest player through their Got Soccer account, and will be in the player pool available to be placed on a roster.

THE INSTRUCTIONS BELOW ONLY APPLY AFTER A PLAYER HAS RECEIVED GUEST PLAYING PERMISSION FROM THEIR CURRENT CLUB.

The player first selects the tournament in which he has received permission from his club to participate, by going into his player account, selects tournaments, and does a search.

Team Roster History

At check in, teams will have to provide the tournament with the team's Official State Roster, player passes and signed guest player forms as the tournament roster is not an official document verifying eligibility or permission.

TEAM MANAGERS

FYSA registers all adults as coaches, and after the background check is approved they are available to be put on rosters etc. When teams enter Got Soccer events, some tournaments require the team manager or contact fields be completed. When this is done at the team level, as is done when the team is not in a state using Got Soccer as a state registration system, there are no ramifications. But since FYSA is using Got Soccer for registration this has caused duplicate accounts and additional unnecessary fees. To prevent this, FYSA suggests that all adult members be registered under the coach tab, and for those teams that are entering a Got Soccer event that the club registrar must create a new account for a currently registered coach under the team officials tab, and set that person as inactive. The manager will have to do another background check, but there will be no additional fees. Then place that person on the team as a manager or contact. If all of the blanks are filled, then there is no need for a team to additional personnel and cause additional charges.

Clubs must advise their teams that while the Got Soccer accounts may allow them to add members, it is the coach's responsibility to follow all club rules. The affiliate should insist on adding all personnel at the club level, and hold coaches and managers responsible at the club level for problems they create by making unauthorized changes in their Got Soccer account.
